X: Thorn

Y: Yarrow

Z: Zebra

Which of these cat descriptions do you like most (These are my oc's kits, but you don't need to know that).

Snowstar (previously snowfall): A sleek, small she-cat with a thin frame and white fur. She has green eyes and a scar wrapped around her leg, much like her father. She is quite introverted but as most leaders are, aware of her duties, and prepared to take on any responsibilities needed of her for her clan. SUFFIX: Heart

Lightstripe: A tall, very light ginger she-cat with grey-blue eyes and even lighter stripes curling around her pelt. She is a very wise medicine cat, and enjoys telling stories to and playing with kits and apprentices when she isn't healing other cats. SUFFIX: Gaze

Shadowwing: A large, black cat with powerful legs and paws, and piercing green eyes, much like Snowstar. She is a warrior and can be a little over-excited, especially near anyone who is quite a bit younger than her. Her coat is always fluffy and ruffled, as she doesn't seem to care about fixing it, as well as from spending too much time rolling around in the long grass of her clan. SUFFIX: Storm

Dawnpaw (deceased, but here is a past description) A small tom with a darker ginger coat similar to his fathers, and lighter ginger stripes. He has blue eyes, with some sight difficulties, and three white spots on his front paw. He is loveable, kind and gentle, but with a fierce determination to prove himself to his father. Unfortunately, he died as an apprentice, when he could not fend off 4 foxes, at least double his size. SUFFIX: Tail

Puddlepaw: (deceased, but another past description) A blue-grey she-cat cat, with blue eyes, similar to her grandmother Softstar, and a slightly torn tail from an accident while hunting. She is fiercely protective over her siblings, and can be extremely reckless, acting without thinking. She is good at fighting, but not the most amazing hunter, meaning her parents almost tried to make her Lightstripe's apprentice. Sadly, she drowned when Snowstar's treacherous mate Redtail pushed her into the river. SUFFIX: Splash

Ivystripe: A white cat with black stripes, with the oddly dark-coloured stripes on her pelt being due to a mutation in her genes, her fur can often get extremely irritated and it can hold her back when she's trying to fight or hunt. She was jealous when Snowstar became leader, but eventually came to accept it after she saw how her sister took care of the clan. She cares a lot about her mate and kits, causing her to be very motherly to other cats in the clan sometimes. SUFFIX: Flower

What did you get? I got Deersplash, Deerflower, Deertail, Deerstorm, Deerheart and Deergaze.

I am not picking favourites for my own OC's :')

Part 25

hehe this was fun

Which of these Clans would you prefer?

Midnight Clan: A Clan that lives in deep caves underground, with the only light being provided by small holes that the sun/moon slightly shine through in some parts of the cave. Hunting doesn't have much variety, with only rats and mice to hunt, and occasionally a bat if you're skilled enough. However, the caves are very warm despite the lack of light, and its the safest place to be during leafbare. The defences are easy to guard and very strong, meaning other Clans don't tend to invade or attack very often, and illness is uncommon.

:Eclipse

Winter Clan: A Clan that lives in an extremely cold area, with their home being between two large trench like structures between glaciers. The cats don't freeze to death, as they've evolved to have very fluffy coats, and they make their nests deep beneath the snow, which usually warms up quickly with the multiple cats creating a lot of body heat. Hunting is difficult, with a lack of prey in the area, usually resorting to small rodents or if you're skilled, larger animals like penguins or polar bear cubs. Sadly, illness' such as greencough and blackcough are very common, and kill kits/young apprentices if there isn't enough heat to keep them warm.

:Blizzard

Coast Clan: This Clan lives next to large cliffs on an abandoned beach. The climate is normal and the cats live in dens in holes/gaps in the large white cliffs, but not so high up that they'd fall. Some kits are very reckless though, and are often at risk of climbing the cliff and falling, which can make it dangerous. They can also end up drowning if they can't escape the tide in time, which can happen far too often. It is difficult to find any other prey apart from seagulls, and the tide is often unpredictable. It is safe from two-legs, and a pleasant place to relax, hunt and train when the tide isn't too far in. These cats often have to learn to swim in case of any emergencies, especially senior warriors and medicine cats.

:Tide

Which of these cat descriptions do you like best?

Twigtail, a cinnamon coloured tabby tom with dark stripes and amber eyes. He has a very calm personality and tends to spend his time hunting in the depths of the forest, away from the noise of the clan camp and other people. He is the deputy of MoonClan. Prefix: Twig

Beechpatch, a purely cream coloured she-cat with yellow eyes. She acts grumpy on the outside but really is a sweetheart, which she tends to show around kits and elders. She is a warrior turned medicine cat, as an illness caused her to be too weak to fight, but she stubbornly refused to retire to the elders den. She is from FinchClan. Prefix: Beech

Hawkflower, a dark brown tabby she-cat queen with bright blue eyes. She is an extremely skilled fighter but can often be a little too protective and defensive. However this trait works well with her kits, and she loves to play and take care of not only her own kits but other kits in the nursery as well, especially a small blind kit she has a bond with. She is from MarshClan. Prefix: Hawk

Which of these Clans would you rather live in?

HailClan

These cats live on the highest mountains, it is always quite cold, meaning the cats have developed longer coats over time in order to cope with the extreme conditions. However, the shallow 'caves' are warmer, and this is where cats will go to warm up, especially queens, kits and vulnerable cats. Winters are hard and they are very isolated, but the Clan has the most beautiful sunsets and sunrises, with a natural ledge near the top of the mountain being perfect for gazing at their beauty. Prefix: Vixen

[image]

ShadeClan

These cats live in deep, luscious forests, with the main camp being surrounded by streams and rushing rivers. Their main prey is fish, however, in the winter they are forced to eat unappetizing fruits in order to survive. It is extremely hot in the summer, meaning these cats are short furred, and to cope with the heat, cats can retreat to the shaded willows by the main river. Many cats enjoy climbing to the top of the trees to gaze at the almost always clear, night sky. Prefix: Hazel

TempestClan

These cats reside on the rocky shores of a beach below a large cliff, and although the waves are constantly relentless from the ongoing storms, it is an ideal environment. The cats can hunt small coastal creatures that hide under the rocks, meaning that these cats have developed larger bodies and stronger legs for pushing against the rocks over time. However, it rains all the time, and sadly, many curious kits and apprentices have been washed away by the waves. In the storms, cats take shelter in small cracks in the cliff, where it is warm and leaves are spread around to make the cats comfortable. Storms are always mesmerising to watch. Prefix: Rain

Which part of storms do you like best? (or if you hate storms, then hate the most?)
